

Cory Ornelas

Cory Ornelas is a dedicated educator with over a decade of teaching experience in Computer Information Science, Business, and Office Technology. Since 2015, he has served as an adjunct instructor at Grossmont College, where he brings a student-centered and work-based learning approach to the classroom. Cory specializes in fostering critical thinking, hands-on technology skills, and career readiness for a diverse student population.

He holds a Master of Business Administration with an emphasis in Information Technology Management from California State University, Dominguez Hills, and a Bachelor of Liberal Studies from Boston University, graduating Cum Laude. He is currently expanding his expertise as a student in the Master of Data Science program at the University of California, San Diego.

Cory is passionate about bridging education and industry through technology education and inclusive teaching practices. He integrates current technology into his curriculum to prepare students for high-demand careers in the digital economy and is committed to helping each student succeed through practical, real-world learning experiences.
