

Steven Domingo

Steven Domingo is the Director of Information Security at the Grossmont-Cuyamaca Community College District. With over 20 years of experience, he has held both technical and leadership roles across financial services, managed service providers, and the biopharmaceutical industry. Steven specializes in building secure, resilient networks and driving cybersecurity strategies that protect complex organizations.

Steven holds a master's degree in Cybersecurity and Information Assurance, along with a wide array of industry-recognized certifications. Outside the classroom, he enjoys swimming and movie nights with his family. Originally from Hawaii, he has a soft spot for Hawaiian-themed restaurants. As a new adjunct professor at Grossmont College, Steven is passionate about mentoring the next generation of IT professionals by sharing real-world experiences and practical insights from the IT industry.