Learning Objectives

• By the end of our session, you will be able to:
  – Review and apply Session 1 content including:
    (a) how instruction in the on-ground classroom differs from the virtual classroom,
    (b) evaluation resources,
    (c) the Categories of the Grossmont College Online Instructor Evaluation tool apply to the online environment
  – Identify the components of Blackboard that relate to instructor evaluation
  – Discuss strategies to ensure that instructors are prepared to teach in the online classroom
  – Learn about upcoming online instruction training opportunities

On-Ground versus Online Learning

FACE-TO-FACE learning

- Teacher and students meet synchronously
- Teacher may rely on models, other manipulatives, and lab equipment.
- Students can immediately seek clarification of a concept or instructions that are unclear.
- Teacher can gauge how the class is doing continuously and, if necessary, provide immediate clarification.
- Disruptive behavior from one student can affect the whole class.
- The personality of the teacher has a large impact on the class dynamic.
- Arts and Crafts
- Gifted learners may lose interest when material is reviewed and re-taught.
- Struggling learners may be overlooked when the majority is ready to move on.
- Student social standing established outside of class may affect individual participation or class dynamics.

EXCLUSIVELY ONLINE learning

- May be synchronous or asynchronous
- Access to models, other manipulatives, and lab materials are largely limited to virtual reproductions.
- Immediate clarification may be unavailable, and student may therefore inadvertently reinforce incorrect habits.
- Teacher may not be able to gauge how the class is doing until one or more activities have been completed.
- Feedback may, therefore, be delayed.
- Disruptive behavior from one student need not affect the whole class.
- The personality of the teacher may have less of an impact on the class dynamic.
- Programs and Apps
- Students are more likely to be able to advance at their own pace.
- Students are more likely to be able to advance at their own pace.
- Students may be less inhibited by social pressures.

Organization of "Course Content"

Below, you will find all of our course materials, from lectures, Powerpoints, films, articles and external links. They are organized by topic, the same topics you have in your syllabus. In this way, when we're on a certain topic, Africans in the Americas for example, you will scroll down to that topic (they're all in order), open that folder called "Africans in the Americas," and inside you'll see the lecture notes, Powerpoint, articles, and film clips for that topic.

To view our films from our Library's Intelecom and Films on Demand service- full guide attached

Attached Files: Viewing our films from Intelecom and Films on Demand.pdf (99.013 KB)

All of our short documentaries are in Course Content, arranged by week and topic (a folder for each week and topic). They are required and very important to this course. To view the Intelecom and/or Films on Demand films in Blackboard: these are library films, so as a part of the library's streaming service. All the films that are in Course Content are also in the library.

Hello classmates! My name is Lorena and I am a nursing major. This is my first time taking an online course, which I am nervous about since I am used to a classroom setting. I decided to take online classes this semester since I believe it would work out better with my work schedule. I am most curious to learn about how societies from the past grew and improved their way of living and how it compares to the way our society is growing today. But if I had to choose a specific theme it would be learning about China. My reason for taking history this semester is to fulfill general education units. Best of luck to all of us this semester.

Hi and welcome Lorena. I hope you enjoy the online format. It is a great way to balance school and work. We will cover the background of how civilizations emerged and then work forward in time through many major civilizations to see how they progressed and developed. China will be one of the places we cover a few times this semester. I look forward to reading your work.

Fall 2014

Group Project

100 points - due Saturday, December 6, 2014

Your group will choose a publicly traded company (on the New York Stock Exchange (NYSE), NASDAQ, or the S&P 500) that has a "green" emphasis, meaning that it is heavily involved with sustainable efforts relating to the environment. Those efforts could include using solar energy, wind power, reducing waste, etc. It does not have to be a company specializing in the environment, simply one that has created and implemented a plan to become more "green".

Article VII, Section 7.18 of the faculty agreement is dedicated to Online Instruction

Section 7.18.1

- Online education includes both Hybrid and Online classes as defined by Title 5 where the instructor and student are separated by distance and interact through the assistance of technology.

- For all courses offering online components there shall be regular and effective contact between the faculty member and the students as required by Title 5, Accreditation and GCCCD Standards.
Section 7.18.3 of Faculty Agreement

• All online instructors, prior to their first assignment, shall complete training in online pedagogy, an online learning management system and accessibility standards or demonstrate mastery or competencies in these areas as approved by the appropriate Dean or designee.

• Such training shall be compensated either via the unit member’s professional development obligation and/or at the unit member’s non-classroom rate of pay, at the option of the unit member with approval of the dean.

• A unit member who, during employment with the District, is required to complete any of the aforementioned training in order to receive approval to instruct an online course shall be reimbursed for the cost of tuition, books or materials, and/or training fees, if any.

• The unit member shall first notify his/her dean of the anticipated costs and receive the approval of the dean for reimbursement before the training begins.
Section 7.18.3 of Faculty Agreement

All online instructors, prior to their first assignment, shall complete training in online pedagogy, an online learning management system and accessibility standards or demonstrate mastery or competencies in these areas as approved by the appropriate Dean or designee.
